Terra Tech Corp. CEO, Derek Peterson, Provides Company and Industry Update in a New Audio Interview at SmallCapVoice.com

NEWPORT BEACH, Ca. – November 23, 2016 – Terra Tech Corp. (OTCQX: TRTC) (“Terra Tech” or the “Company”), a vertically integrated cannabis-focused agriculture company, today announced that Derek Peterson, CEO of Terra Tech, has provided a company and industry update in an audio interview on SmallCapVoice.com.

Derek Peterson discusses the recent U.S. election and the President-elect’s cabinet appointments, as well as the outlook for the Company. Other topics covered in the interview include; the current and future state of the cannabis industry, California and Nevada legalization and much more.

Derek Peterson, Chairman and CEO of Terra Tech commented, “Following the recent election, we remain confident the incoming administration will respect states’ rights to autonomous decision-making, thereby allowing the cannabis industry to continue its rapid expansion. President-Elect Trump has stated his opinion in favor of allowing cannabis regulations to be decided on a state-by-state basis and we believe he understands the clear economic and social benefits surrounding our industry. Over half of the states in the U.S. have legalized some form of cannabis, whether medical or recreational, which has sent an overwhelmingly positive message from the electorate in support of the industry. We are already seeing significant tax revenues generated by medical and recreational cannabis, as well as the creation of thousands of jobs, across the country. With the overwhelmingly positive response received on Election Day from the voting public, we believe that public sentiment is in our favor, and that core decision makers will be reluctant to stifle a flourishing industry that has the support of large swathes of the voting public.”
